

Vocational, Technical, and Trade Schools

What does “Vocational” mean?

The term vocational uniquely describes both a type of education and a type of career. Vocational education, commonly known as career and technical education (CTE) is offered at community colleges, career centers, technical schools and some four-year universities. These programs prepare students to be career ready by focusing on three areas: academic skills, employability skills, and technical, career-specific skills. In turn, vocational careers share the following traits:

- * They are related to a specific trade or field
- * They are non-academic in-nature
- * They include hands-on, practical activities
- * They may require apprenticeships or on-the-job training
- * They typically require a credential, certificate, or diploma
